A Superstitious Fancy.

A young business man went home the other evening with a very fine feather duster for his wife, who is a practical housekeeper, albeit she is also a graduate of Vassar and well up in all the isms and dogmas of the day. It must be remembered that the conversation which ensued was not held in the dark ages, but in the present enlightenment of the nineteenth century.

"Here's something you'll appreciate, Maud," he said as he began to undo the numerous wrappings. "There was only one, and it came over in two ships."

"What in the world is it, you dear, old thing?" cried Maud, dancing around him.

"Guess, sweetheart."
"Oh, I know! It's a new umbrella for my birthday."

"Nothing of the sort. Shut your eyes.
Now open them. There!"
An immense duster of magnificent peacock feathers, released from its sheath of wrappings, was flourished before the young woman's eyes. She gave one look at it, then burst out crying.

"Oh, you cruel boy! When you know how w-u-n-l-u-c-k-y it is to have peacock feathers in the house, and what dreadful trouble it makes to g-g-i-v-e any one feathers!" sobbed Maud.

"Then you don't want this feather duster?"
"For the world!"
"Maud!"
"Claude!"

"I have a great mind to throw this out of the window."
"I wish you would, dear. We'll never have any luck with it in the house." And the man who, going home late that night, picked it up has been congratulating himself ever since on his lucky find.—Detroit Free Press.

A Laughing Disease.

From Austria comes a curious account of a man suffering from a nervous disease that manifests itself in paroxysms of laughter. The patient, whose case was described before the Psychiatric and Neurological society of Vienna, was 30 years of age and had been subject for three years to fits of laughter, which occurred at first every two or three months, gradually increasing in frequency to a dozen or more a day. The attacks occurred especially between 9 in the evening and 6:30 in the morning, and in greatest frequency between 9 and 6:30. Some occurred also during the day, however the patient happened to be occupied. In the intervals between the attacks and immediately before and afterward the man was perfectly well.

The attacks set in with a tickling sensation arising from the feet, the left foot, and the patient would fall to the ground unless he could call somebody to his aid. When this tickling reached the level of the left nipple, the patient lost consciousness for a few seconds. Often the patient lay upon his face. The mouth and eyes were closed spasmodically, the eyelids turned upward, the pupils were dilated and unresponsive to light. At the height of the attack the patient at first smiled, and then laughed aloud without other sign of merriment. The entire attack occupied about two minutes. On two occasions there was protracted loss of consciousness.—Popular Science News.

George De Maurier's Double.
Mr. De Maurier had a double, and his double was, as many people are aware, Mr. Alma Tadema. So remarkable was the resemblance that even their most intimate friends frequently mistook them.

A certain young lady, however, predicted herself that she had no difficulty in determining which was which. On one occasion, finding herself seated next to Mr. De Maurier at dinner, she remarked:
"I cannot understand how any one can mistake you for Mr. Tadema. To me the likeness is very slight." Presently she added: "By the way, I have a photograph of you. Do be so good as to put your autograph to it."

Mr. De Maurier, assuming graciously, the photograph was afterward produced. He looked at it for a moment, sighed and then very gently laid it on the table.

"That," he remarked, "is Mr. Alma Tadema's portrait."—Pearson's Weekly.

The Only Difference Was the Price.
"In a famous London auction room the other day a copy of Goldsmith's
'Deserted Village,' the octavo edition, which is commonly called 'the first,' was sold to an American buyer for $125. Next day a bookseller whose shop is almost next door to the auction room sold a copy of the same edition for 75 cents." The person who bought the copy for 75 cents certainly got a bargain, but it is doubtful that the other purchaser will get as much for his copy as he paid for it. The incident shows what curious things happen in the trade in old books. Nor is it an isolated case. On the contrary, it is only one of a great many like it.—New York Tribune.

ERIE MEDICAL CO., Buffalo, N. Y.

The camel is a beast of great strength and endurance. Nothing hurts it until the proverbial "last straw" is added to its burden. The human digestive system is very much like a camel. You can impose on it to a wonderful degree. It is really astonishing how much abuse it will stand before it breaks down. The last straw doesn't break it down, but it makes it stop work. Continually put the wrong things into your stomach, and digestion will get weaker and weaker. Before long, something worse than usual will be eaten, and will go through the stomach into the bowels, and there it will stick—that's constipation. Let it continue, and there is nothing but bad results. Some deaths of all human sickness is due to constipation.
Some of the simplest symptoms are coated tongue and foul breath, dizziness, headaches, flatulency, salivary discharges after eating, headaches and lassitude. A little thing will relieve it. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are a certain cure for constipation. They are tiny, sugar-coated granules, mild and natural in their action.
There is nothing injurious about them.
You can take them just as freely as you take your food. There is no danger that you will become a slave to their use. They will cure you and then you can stop taking them. Send for free sample package of from 4 to 7 doses. World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y.

OF INTEREST TO TAXPAYERS.

The citizens of Reno, by decisive majority, voted to incorporate the town, to have the town acquire and operate a municipal water works, and to have the town acquire and operate a municipal light plant. To carry into execution the expressed wish of the people requires a charter for a town government and the expenditure of a large amount of money. It is believed that a practical system of town government could be devised, the expense of which could be met by the revenue derived from licenses and a moderate tax on city property. The construction of city water works would necessarily entail a large indebtedness, while the cost of acquiring and operating an electric light plant would not be so expensive. These are matters of great importance to everybody who pays licenses and taxes in the town of Reno and they should be generally discussed so that the people will have full knowledge of the expense attached to a municipal government and the acquisition of water works and an electric light plant. It would not be just to our legislative delegation to compel them to assume all the responsibility by advocating the passage of an act for the purposes mentioned. The bill should be carefully drawn and it should be submitted to a vote of the people of Reno for ratification before it takes effect. A municipal government can be made an expensive luxury if there are many officers at large salaries, and in these times that would suit only those who were so fortunate as to be placed in position to draw the salaries.

Discussion on this subject is now in order so that when the Legislature convenes next January our representatives will know what the people want.

RELIEF MEASURES DISCUSSED.

Reports from the East indicate that an effort will be made at the ensuing session of Congress to secure the passage of the Dingley tariff bill in the Senate. The House passed the bill early last winter, but the Senate amended it by attaching a rider which provided for the free coinage of silver. Now it is proposed to pass the bill without the attachment, and as the Republicans claim that will restore prosperity, the Senate should not stand in the way.

Another scheme which the goldbugs say will benefit the country is to retire the greenbacks now in circulation, and replace them with national bank notes or silver certificates based upon the coinage of the silver bullion stored in the Treasury. This will not increase the volume of money, as a greenback is not a demand for every national bank note or silver certificate issued, but it will get the hoard of silver bullion in the Treasury vaults out of the way. This hoard of bullion has had a tendency to depress the price of silver and no objection can be made to its coinage, though President Cleveland vetoed a bill to coin the seigniorage or difference between the market value and coinage value of that bullion.

So far no suggestion has been made to increase the volume of money, and able financiers contend that there will be no permanent prosperity until that is done. The silver men should place no obstacles in the way of legislation which the gold men say will restore prosperity. The people of the East have declared that the gold standard shall prevail and that it will restore confidence and relieve the business depression and it is only right that they should be given free rein for the next two years.

SENATOR SHERMAN'S VIEWS.

Honest John Sherman of Ohio is in New York City and talking quite freely. He says [the Senate made a great mistake in not permitting the Dingley tariff bill to pass at the last session of Congress. He does not think the silver men will oppose its passage at the next session and if it becomes a law there will be no necessity for an extra session after President McKinley is inaugurated.

If Senator Sherman is sincere he believes that a change of 5 per cent in tariff schedules is all that is required to make the country prosperous. He has the reputation in Republican circles of being one of the greatest statesmen of the day. If that estimate of the man is correct he may be right. The Senate should, therefore, pass the Dingley bill and see whether he is or not. There are people who do not believe that increasing the price of many of the necessities of life will enable people who cannot now afford to purchase all they require of those necessities to pay a higher price for them, but those people are not statesmen and their opinions amount to nothing in comparison with those of Senator Sherman. Who knows but what the great goldbug is right and that all that is necessary to restore prosperity is to increase the price of what many cannot afford to buy at the present price.

Tax State Central Committees of the three silver parties in Iowa, the Democrats, Silver Republicans and Populists, have issued an address, urging unification. They say that while silver was beaten in Iowa, Bryan polled 225,000 votes, a larger number by 5,000 than the Republicans ever polled before the election.

A Stirring Report From Grand Master Workman Sovereign.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., November 11.—Grand Master Workman Sovereign's report was read at the General Assembly of the Knights of Labor to-day. He says:

After a struggle of 27 years against the evils of aggregated wealth, by our Order, we are confronted with more serious problems affecting the rights and liberties of the industrial masses than ever before. Not only have the idle, speculative classes demonstrated their ability to dominate productive enterprises and accumulate the wealth of tolling millions, but they have demonstrated their power to coerce wage-earners and mortgage farmers with threats of discharge and foreclosure, into submission against their will.

The plutocratic holders of idle money have subverted the principle of free government by forcing political service from the poor as a tenure of employment.

The laboring man can combat falsehood and bid defiance to traitors of their own ranks, but when the depraved monster of corporate rapacity steals into their homes and threatens them with discharge and persecution because of their political convictions, they sacrifice their liberties in consideration of food and shelter for their helpless wives and innocent children. The struggle just passed has demonstrated that pecuniary dependence is political slavery.

In the struggle just passed, the Knights of Labor proved itself the only organization that stood like an iron wall before the fire of the organized money power of two continents. Every general officer and every district and local assembly of our organization earned every effort of bribery and scorned every threat of money kind.

Sovereign added that, except Eugene V. Debs, the heads of organizations, including the Federation of Labor, gave no material aid to the recent struggle.

TELEGRAPHIC NOTES.

Within the last six weeks there have been ten cases of housebreaking at Lodi, California, and burglars have reaped a rich harvest in watches and jewelry.

A report that Archbishop Ireland would be removed from his See at St. Paul because of his political utterances in favor of McKinley is said to be groundless.

Olapp & Co., brokers doing business in New York, have assigned. The firm has done a large business in stocks, bonds, grain and cotton and had offices in several cities.

The westbound train on the Union Pacific struck a broken rail near Ogallala, Nebraska, and four cars, one a Pullman, were derailed. Fourteen passengers were slightly injured.

Fourteen buildings in the business portion of Traverse City, Michigan, were burned and Ed. Newberry, a porter, was burned to death. The guests at the Front Street Hotel escaped through the windows in their night clothes.

Governor Mitchell of Florida has addressed a letter to the Governors of the Northern States directing attention to the defenseless condition of the Atlantic Coast and calling for a convention to assemble in January, 1897, to take action in the matter.

The almond growers of California are to meet in Sacramento December 1st to prepare a petition to Congress asking that a tariff of five cents per pound be placed on imported almonds. The present tariff is three cents per pound and they say that is not enough.

James Carlin and William Hanley, who are suspected by the police of being two Eastern crooks, were arrested on the Oakland ferry boat after a desperate struggle. They arrived on the overland train and passengers complained of the loss of satchels and overcoats. They resisted arrest and drew pistols before they were overpowered.

King Oscar of Sweden and Norway has been chosen by treaty between the United States and Great Britain as the fifth official arbitrator of the Venezuelan boundary question. The others are to be designated, two by the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of the United States and two by the Lord Chief Justice of England.

The mail train on the Northern Pacific was wrecked near Missoula, Montana, by a land slide. The engine was thrown on its side and four cars derailed. Engineer George Fairchild was instantly killed, and Fireman Frank Waldron seriously injured. Some of the passengers and the baggage men and express messengers were slightly injured.

A renewal of the trouble at Leadville, Colorado, is threatened. Miners on their way to work and citizens who are opposed to a continuance of the strike have been waylaid and beaten. The city council decided to increase the police force and favorably considered the passage of a curfew ordinance, which would clear the streets of young hoodlums.

The London papers commenting on the approaching retirement of Ambassador Bayard, say that no American Minister since the time of Lowell has been so thoroughly acceptable to the English people and London society. He has worked devotedly and persistently, yet as a patriotic envoy, should, for the continuance of the friendship of both branches of the English speaking race.

VIRGINIA'S ICE MINE.

It Is One of the Greatest Wonders in This Country.

One of the greatest curiosities in the United States, or in the world, perhaps, is the wonderful ledge of ice which exists, even in the midst of the hottest summer, in Scott county, Va. This natural icehouse is situated on the north side of Stone mountain and about six miles from the mouth of a small stream known as Stony creek. The marvel is said to have been known to at least one of the early settlers, a Mr. Danridge, who, it is alleged, discovered it while deer hunting away back in 1880. Owing to the fact that the land on which it was situated could not be bought, Mr. Danridge positively refused to toll of the whereabouts of the ice ledge, and only visited the place when it was absolutely necessary to obtain a supply to be used in case of sickness.

The old man died many years ago, and from that time until 1888 the location of Danridge's ice mine was unknown, the old gentleman having never even taken his own family into the secret. In the year last mentioned, however, a party of keen diggers visited the unfrequented region contiguous to Stone mountain and were fortunate enough to rediscover the lost ice mine.

During two or three months in the middle of summer the ice is only protected from the sun's rays by a thick growth of moss. The formation of the ice layer is similar to that of a coal vein, being thin in some places and thicker in others, the average thickness being about four feet. Persons of some scientific attainments who have visited the place for the purpose of studying the wonder say that it has the appearance of having been there since the time of the ice age, which the geologists talk so much about. Another plausible theory is that somewhere beneath the bed where other is constantly formed and expelled, and that the process of freezing is now constantly going on. Whatever view is taken it is one of the great natural wonders the state affords.—Louis Republic.

BORN.

COWLES—In Waleworth, Nev., November 6, 1896, to the wife of R. H. Cowles, a son.

Gladness Comes

With a better understanding of the transient nature of the many physical ills, which vanish before proper efforts—gentle efforts—pleasant efforts—rightly directed. There is comfort in the knowledge that so many forms of sickness are not due to any actual disease, but simply to a constipated condition of the system, which the pleasant family laxative, Syrup of Figs, promptly removes. That is why it is the only remedy with millions of families, and is everywhere esteemed so highly by all who value good health. Its beneficial effects are due to the fact that it is the one remedy which promotes internal cleanliness without debilitating the organs on which it acts. It is therefore all important, in order to get its beneficial effects, to note when you purchase, that you have the genuine article, which is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only and sold by all reputable druggists.

If in the enjoyment of good health, and the system is regular, laxatives or other remedies are then not needed. If afflicted with any actual disease, one may be commended to the most skillful physicians, but if in need of a laxative, one should have the best, and with the well-informed everywhere, Syrup of Figs stands highest and is most largely used and gives most general satisfaction.

"TENNESSEE'S PARTNER."

A Play That Smacks Strongly of "The Days of '04."

Pretty Jane Corcoran's admonition to "keep your eye on the nail," in "Tennessee's Partner," which began its second week at the Columbia last night, was not needed for the big audience never lost sight of its fascinating head for a moment.

The play, with its rough, brawny miners and its iron code of honor, smacks strongly of the "days of old," and the days of gold, and the characters are more or less true to the pictures Bret Harte painted. Harry Marshall, "legitimate and lightened," dealt the trump "cards" of his part to a winning tune, and Miss Corcoran's Tennessee Kent, the miners' ideal, grows upon one with closer acquaintance.

Charles E. Hawkins as Geewhiker Hay is really the most elegant and prominent part in the play. The singing of the Golden Nugget Quartet is considerably above any that has been heard in this city in many a day. The piece will, no doubt, draw well during this, its second week.

Examiner.

The Grand Jury.

The grand jury was in session yesterday and considered the cases of Thos. Holkett and Jas. Porter, charged with the attempt to wreck the passenger train west of town on the night of August 6th last. True bills were found in the case of each defendant.

Inquiry into the alleged irregularities at Hufakers on election day developed little of importance. Several witnesses were examined, but no indictment was found.

The Judge thought it advisable, as long as the year was nearly at an end, that the grand jury, through its committee or an expert, look into the county affairs generally before their final discharge.

The grand jury then adjourned subject to the call of the foreman.

A Valuable Prescription.

Editor Morrison of Worthington, Ind., writes: "You have a valuable prescription in Electric Bitters, and I can cheerfully recommend it for constipation and sick headache, and as a general system tonic it has no equal."

Mrs. Annie Stehle, 2625 Cottage Grove Ave., Chicago, was all run down, could not eat nor digest food, had a backache which never left her and felt tired and weary, but six bottles of Electric Bitters restored her health and renewed her strength. Prices 50 cents and $1. Get a bottle at S. J. Hodgkinson's drug store.

ABSOLUTELY PURE

INDIAN SIGN LANGUAGE.

The Red Man Selects Distinguishing Characteristics With Unerring Accuracy.

In describing an object the Indian has the most wonderful faculty of picking out its most distinguishing characteristic at once, says a writer in the Chautauquan. I have repeatedly seen Indians come into a military post to see officers. Without knowing the particular officer's name, and without being able to pronounce it intelligibly if it were known, I have never seen an instance where, by a few signs the Indian has not been at once directed to the person whom he wished to see. A stout officer will be described beyond the possibility of doubt when the Indian half circles his extended hands over the region of the stomach. If the officer wears glasses the Indian will look through the two circles made by his thumbs and first fingers; if the officer is bald, the Indian will raise his own long tresses in one hand and draw the forefinger of his other hand across the top of his head as though he were going through the pleasant operation of lifting a scalp. An officer who varied the monotony of frontier life by very steady and hard drinking I once saw an Indian describe by pointing at the head and then waving his hand in small circles. There was no mistaking the sign—the Indian wanted the officer whose brain was in a whirl. And although utterly devoid of a sense of humor, an Indian is always laughingly good natured in thus pointing out any one's distinguishing characteristics or eccentricities.

The expression of words by means of the sign language may be divided into the following classes: Imitating actions or attributes; pointing to objects; representing shapes, sizes, uses or habits; simulating emotions; employing metaphors consistent with Indian conception; and making empirical signs, although if the development of signs of this last class could be traced back I am sure they would resolve themselves into some one of the other classes.

Told at Rest.

The funeral of the late Mrs. P. L. Flannigan took place from the Catholic Church yesterday morning at 10 o'clock. The remains were conveyed from the late residence of the deceased to the church followed by a large number of friends.

The services at the church, conducted by Rev. Father Kiley were very impressive and many a heart was filled with sadness at the thought of the untimely cutting off of the bright young life of her who lay so still before them.

The services were concluded at the Catholic cemetery, and all that was mortal of her who had been so loved was laid to rest forever. There was a profusion of flowers and several beautiful floral pieces. The deepest of sympathy was expressed for the bereaved husband in his hour of utter loneliness.

The Ideal Panacea.

James L. Francis, Alderman, Chicago says: "I regard Dr. King's New Discovery as an ideal panacea for coughs, colds and lung complaints, having used it in my family for the last five years, to the exclusion of physicians' prescriptions or other preparations."

Rev. John Burgess, Keokuk, Iowa, writes: "I have been a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church for 50 years or more, and have never found anything so beneficial, or that gave such a speedy relief as Dr. King's New Discovery." Try this Ideal Cough Remedy now. Trial bottles free at S. J. Hodgkinson's Drug Store.

Lecture Last Night.

At the Methodist Church last night before a good sized audience Miss De Velling, National Lecturer and Organizer of the W. C. T. U. spoke at length on the aims and objects of the W. C. T. U. and the different societies fostered by it. Miss De Velling is an able and earnest worker in the cause of temperance. Her telling remarks and bits of humor were frequently interrupted by applause.

Proceeding the lecture there was singing by the choir, Mrs. Mercer read a poem and Mrs. Skinner told of her experiences in the Crusaders in New York City in 1873.

Prompt and Efficient Services.

Tom Brown, manager of the Western Union Telegraph office, and his efficient force of assistants should be complimented and are deserving of many thanks from the public generally and the newspapers particularly for the prompt service rendered from his office during the late election. The election news was delivered and bulletined in Reno as quickly as in the largest cities of the country, where a trained force is employed especially for such purposes. Tom is "up to date" in his business and never fails to "get there."

Viava Is King.

Visitors to Reno, are cordially invited to call and investigate the merits of Viava. I have sold since June, 1892, $13,900 worth, this speaks its value without further words.

PERFORMING HORSES.

Marvels of Equine Intelligence.

Prof. D. M. Bristol, with his wonderful performing horses, will open a two-night's engagement at McKissick's Opera House next Monday evening.

The troupe consists of thirty horses, who perform the most wonderful tricks generally considered impossible for animals to do. The most intelligent and accomplished of these animals is Sultan, who has achieved international reputation as the horse mathematician. He works sums in arithmetic, tells the time, and even gives the proper answers to questions propounded by persons in the audience.

The skill and sagacity of these horses seem to require the exercise of reasoning faculty.

There will be a matinee performance Tuesday afternoon. The prices will be 50 and 75 cents at night and 25 and 50 cents at the matinee at 3 p. m.

The Baltimore Telegram of a recent date, says: "Prof. Bristol's Equine Circus, at Ford's Grand Opera House, has been called 'marvel of equine intelligence,' and without doubt it is. They can't talk, but they do nearly everything else, and their series of acts and tricks elicit the most rapturous applause, and many a dramatic artist would feel highly honored to secure one-half the plaudits showered on these dumb animals."

Notice to Candidates.

There being some uncertainty among candidates for office at the recent election with regard to the necessity of their filing statements of their election expenses, I have considered it expedient to call their attention to sections three (3) and thirty (30) of the Purity of Election law. Section 30 reads as follows: "Every candidate for a public office who refuses or neglects to file a statement as prescribed in Section 3 of this act, is guilty of a misdemeanor." Candidates, whether elected or defeated, must file their statements within fifteen days after the day of election or be liable to prosecution for misdemeanor.

Diphtheria Cure.

The testimony of a prominent physician:

FOUNTAIN CITY, Ind., June 17, 1895.

This certifies that I have been using V. O. in my practice. I have never found any medical preparation in 46 years of practice that is calculated to do so much good in so wide a range of diseases and leave no after bad effects.

In Diphtheria it has proved a perfect specific in my hands, and I had rather depend on it alone in that dreadful disease than the whole popular Materia Medica with that left out. For sale by 6-21f,

That "truly good" man, Colonel Breckenridge, who was convicted of the grossest immorality, was nominated for Congress in the Ashland district, Kentucky, by the Republicans. The Colonel was beaten, but he asks that the vote of Owen county be thrown out because of alleged violation of law. The Colonel should be one of the last persons to complain on that score, with the evidence of his transgressions fresh in the minds of the public.

REPRESENTATIVE JOHN F. SHAFROTH of Colorado received a majority of 64,373 in the First Congressional district. He left the Republican party when it declared against silver and received the largest majority ever given a member of Congress since the Government was organized.

Spoiled a Sale.

A friend of mine was in one of the emporiums the other day and happened across a very swell acquaintance.

He was in the shoe department, and was buying $3 shoes for her daughter.

The haughty one seemed quite interested when she saw my acquaintance and stammered out:

"I—I just came down to get some shoes for my servants."

Then, as she saw that the intruder was greeting one of her daughters, who was just in the act of trying on the aforesaid plebeian shoes, she hastily added:

"Addie is trying them on for her, as she has the same sized foot as Bridget."

But this struck Addie as a little too ridiculous, and, as she was a plain, everyday American girl, without frills, she laughed aloud, much to her silly mother's discomfort.

"Oh, don't mind me!" she said.

"That's just one of her jokes. Those shoes are for me, and I wear two."

Bridget wears sixes, I guess."

"The shoes are very good here," said my acquaintance, "and very much cheaper than on Broadway."

But the silly mother would have none of it.

She was furious with her plain spoken daughter and handed back the shoes to the amused and amazed shopwoman.

"I'll send our servants down," she said shortly. "That will be better. Come, girls. Hope to see you again, Mr. —"

And she swept out, with her nose in the air, followed by her giggling daughters.

"You spoiled a sale," said the shop-girl as my acquaintance sat down, "but she'll come back again. She's a regular customer."—Polly Pry in New York Recorder.

Goldbugs.

The most remarkable goldbugs in the world are found in Central America. They belong to the genus Platystrophia, and one might easily imagine a specimen to be the work of some clever artificer in metal. The head and wing covers are brilliantly polished, with a luster as of gold itself. To sight and touch they have all the seeming of metal, and it is hard to realize that the creature is a mere animal. Oddly enough, there is another species of Platystrophia from the same region, which has the appearance of being wrought in solid silver, freshly polished. These gold and silver beetles have a market value. They are worth from $25 to $50 each. The finest collection of them in existence today is owned by Walter Rothschild of the English Entomological Club.

Though a young man, only 23 years of age, he has already spent $300,000 on beetles. Every year he sends two men to Central America to gather beetles, one of the most beautiful bugs in the world is a small beetle known to science as the blue Heptamelus. Its back is an exquisite iridescent sky blue, and the under part of its body is of a bright silver lute. The notion that it contains silver is widely entertained, and attempts have frequently been made to extract silver from it.—Buffalo Commercial.

They All

and in a short time go out of sight entirely, to be heard from no more."

"Why is it?" "O, simply because Hood's Sarsaparilla has more real curative merit than any medicine I ever sold."

This is of daily occurrence in almost every drug store. Hood's Sarsaparilla is the standard remedy which has cured more sickness, relieved more distress and made more happiness by bringing people health than any other medicine. Its wonderful cures of the worst cases of scrofula, running sores, ulcers, salt rheum, etc.; of dyspepsia and other troubles where a first class tonic and aid to digestion was needed; of catarrh, rheumatism, malaria and other troubles arising from or promoted by impure blood, have made

A DOUBTFUL MAID'S SOLILOQUY.

To ride or not to ride, that is the question—Whether 'twere better to cast aside all pride And don the bloomers, appearing thus with man.

In public thoroughfare, his equal now,
And boldly self assertive, challenge all who pass

To criticize the mannish sport, the loss of girlish grace.

Or to cling to petticoats and stay at home.
For of a surety there are joyous parties formed
To pleasure in which I bear no part.

But, then, to ride, to fall, perchance
To break one's wheel—aye, there's the rub—
Or to encounter wicked brewery carts Beaten on the destruction of the highway's plague.

I fear, I tremble. 'Tis growsome but to think on it.

Still, what is there left to do since all girls ride?

I'll do it. I'll be brave. 'Twas but yesterday
I saw.

Clasping from my window, who but Tom Ridgway with that smithereen girl, forgetting me.
Heeb, softly now. I'll steal away and take a lesson.

If all goes well, another week will see me by his side.

Forweld to ancient prejudices. We need them not.

And thus I say farewell. —New York Sun.

A DEADLY OCCUPATION.

Bringing Out Horax From the Rifts In Death Valley.

The deadliest occupation for men or horses is teaming in the borax fields of Death valley of the great American desert.
There the longest teams in the world are employed. Scientists declare that the fierce heat in this narrow rent in the cracked surface of the earth is not equaled elsewhere in the world.
Where the thermometer often registers 140 degrees of heat unrelieved by even a breath of air, where men sleep at night in hollow ditches filled with water in order to avoid dying from collapse, the necessity for the longest teams of mules and horses ever harnes-ed to draw the great borax laden wagons is apparent.

The desert team is the longest in the world, and the percentage of deaths among the horses is greater than that of domestic animals used in any other calling. Forty to 60 horses are often hitched to one of the lumbering vehicles in which the borax is slowly dragged across the sun baked alkali plains.
The average life of even the sturdiest horses used in this work is six months, for in this length of time they either become broken winded, consumptive from inhaling the deadly dust of the desert or are driven crazy by the frightful heat.

A man there, though protected by the wagon awnings from the sun's rays, cannot go an hour without water without danger of death. When a team breaks down and the water supply becomes depleted, the men ride on at top speed for the nearest source of supply, and often when they return they find that the remaining horses, made mad by thirst, have broken from the harness and dashed off only to find death in the desert.

The borax wagons weigh 8,000 pounds and carry 20,000 pounds at a load. Behind each wagon is a tank containing hundreds of gallons of water.
The horses are harnessed in pairs, the trained ones in the lead, and the next in intelligence just ahead of the tongue, while the unruly and the youngsters are hitched between. The high leader has a bridle with the strap from the left jaw shorter than the other, and from the bridle runs a braided rope, which the driver, perched on the wagon seat, holds in his right hand.

The rope is called the "jerk line" and is a little longer than the team, which stretches out several hundred feet in front of the wagon. During the busy season the borax wagons make an almost continuous train, and the horses alone, if placed in single file, would make a team more than 100 miles long.

Besides a little food and water the poor animals get no care. They carry themselves by rolling in the burning sand. After a few mouths of the killing labor the poor creatures become unfit for service. A kindly rifle ball then ends their agony, and their emaciated carcasses are left alongside the trail to furnish scum picking for the hovering vaf-tures.—California Letter.

Yawning Fishes.

It is not generally known that fish yawn. The writer saw a turbot yawn twice and a cod once, the latter being one of the widest yawns accomplished by any animal of its size. The yawn of a turbot, being something not commonly seen, deserves particular description.

A turbot's mouth is twisted on one side, rather as if it had belonged to a round fish which some one had accidentally trod on and squashed half flat. The yawn begins at the lips, which opens as if to suck in water. Then the jaws become distended, and it is seen that this is going to be a real, genuine submarine fish yawn. But the yawn goes on, works through the back of its head, dis-tending the plates of the skull and comes out at the gills, which open, show the red inside, are inflated for a moment, and then, with a kind of stretching shiver of its back, the fish flattens out again, until, if unusually bored, it relieves itself by another yawn.—Pearson's Weekly.

Likened to the Lion.

Alep Arsan was called the Valiant Lion from his daring in battle. Arrian of Assyria appears on the monuments of that country as the Lion King. Gustavs Adolphus was known as the Lion of the North; Louis VIII of France was the Lion King; Richard I of England was the Lion Hearted, and William of Scotland was so called not from any particular exploits, but on account of the fact that on his helmet he bore a lion rampant.

The first white child born on United States soil was the granddaughter of White, the governor of Roanoke island.
She was christened by the name of Virginia Dare, and her birthday was on Aug. 18, 1587.

Most Which Are Overlooked.

So many bicyclists have been observed suffering from "clogged" chains that a word of advice may with propriety be repeated. Oil the chain—nothing is more necessary, but be sure not to have it wet. Each link should be thoroughly lubricated, and then the chain should be rubbed dry. No amount of rubbing, it should be remembered, can remove the oil from the parts between the links, where it is needed, and not a particle of oil is required on the exterior surface.
The drier that is the better. The oil, if exposed, picks up and holds dust and adds greatly to the friction. The same advice applies to all oiling. If so much is put in the bearings that some overflows and it is not wiped off, dust will gather at the spot, and even in the best made bearings some of it will almost certainly work into the balls and make trouble. And even if it does not get so far the bunches of dust so accumulated detract from the appearance of an otherwise well groomed machine and render the cleaning after a run twice as difficult as it need be. The fact is that more wheels are overoiled than underoiled.
"Carrying a canny," as the "wheelmen" call riding with a dry bearing that squeals, is not half so common as a dust buried bearing. Of course, of the two, the latter is preferable, but no rider need have either.—New York Post.

Collar Bands.

The collar bands on the new gowns are one of the special points of decoration, and frills of some sort are invariably set in on the edge to stand up around the neck, commencing a little distance apart on either side of the front. They are made of knife plaited silk, ribbon, lace or chiffon, and one very effective trimming is lace in vandyke points, outlined with a tiny robe of colored ribbon and gathered into the neck. Plain velvet collars, with plaitings of ribbon set in fan shape at the back, are very pretty, and collars made of bias folds of light velvet or satin, with narrow, black, pearl edged ribbon edging each fold, are another fancy.—

Notes.

It is a somewhat singular fact that the rarest of all nooses is that found where one would naturally expect to find it—in the middle of the face. Taking 100 heads at random, one will not find, on an average, more than three in which the bridge of the nose descends perpendicularly from a straight line drawn exactly between the eyes.

Caged monkeys are tolerably certain to give an indication of coming bad weather, being then more ill natured and quarrelsome than at any other time.
